

The Year, Mapped Out (Loosely)

Three terms. A few checkpoints. Room to breathe. This is the plan that is still standing in November.

How to use this

- Fill in your own term dates. They vary by council, and nobody home educating needs to memorise the school calendar.
- Leave the flexible column empty on purpose. That is not a gap, that is the plan working.
- One review page is enough for the whole year, photocopy it. You will want it three times, minimum.

Your three terms

Term	Dates	Main focus	Planned (70%)	Flexible (30%)
Autumn		Building momentum
Spring		Review & deepen
Summer		Consolidate & look ahead

This is a planning tool, not a legal requirement. Home educating families are not required to follow school terms, a timetable, or anyone else's system, just their own.

Little Folio

Free template · littlefolio.co.uk

Ten Minutes, Once a Term

That is the whole review system. Four questions, a bit of honesty, and you are ready for whatever comes next.

Term: _____

Date: _____

1. What genuinely worked well?

Keep it. Do not fix what is not broken.

2. What did not work?

Be honest, not harsh. You are allowed to change your mind.

3. Any unexpected interests?

The best plans grow out of these, not out of the curriculum.

4. What is the one thing worth changing?

Just one. Not a whole new system.

This is a planning tool, not a legal requirement. Home educating families are not required to follow school terms, a timetable, or anyone else's system, just their own.

Your child's learning life, beautifully kept. · littlefolio.co.uk